Major Administrative Accomplishments

2025 - Dean, Ivan Allen College of Liberal Arts at the Georgia Institute of Technology

- Led a college of roughly 350 faculty (tenure-track and non tenure-track) and 100 staff across six interdisciplinary schools, 25 research centers, 3 ROTC units, 1000 undergraduates and 900 graduate students, with (a) service teaching mission across whole Institute and (b) R1 research prowess
- Fostered a new college strategic plan, co-created with the involvement of 86 stakeholders and 68 team meetings, with the resulting plan focused on measurable key performance indicators
- Stewarded a new civic institute, the Michael E. Tennenbaum Family Institute for Technology and Civic Leadership, resulting in 1.8M in state funds and a 30M endowment
- Conceptualized and championed a new value-proposition: The "Ivan Allen Advantage," highlighting our excellent return on investment for liberal arts graduates and teaching success across Institute
- Supported Communications to a new marketing strategy, around "Human.Intelligence." and an active print and social media marketing campaign
- Championed the launch the Council of Liberal Arts Leaders at Technological Universities, bringing together leaders from over two dozen peer institutions to advance the role of liberal arts education in an increasingly technological and AI-driven world
- (Re)establish shared governance mechanisms: Faculty Advisory Council, Staff Advisory Council, and Emeritus Advisory Council
- Created new centrally-funded initiatives to address enrollment issues within college, resulting in enrollment trends in undergraduate enrollment that beat industry trends and graduate enrollment trends (including yield) that lead Institute averages
- More than tripled alumni and development activities in first two years of deanship, including a season-long football suite strategy for engagement
- Established data-driven enrollment and financial practices, resulting in (a) secure funding for all PhD students, (b) equitable professional development funding for all full time staff and faculty in the college, and (c) self-funded market adjustments for staff
- Fostered relationships with CNN, Anthropic, and Boys and Girls Club of America. Relationship with CNN lead to the first US-Institution-based CNN Academy on campus with students from multiple universities participating.
- Met $50M campaign fundraising goal a year and a half early, despite starting deanship with College behind on reaching campaign goal
- Co-champion of the Institute's AI for Research Strategy

2018-2025 - Department Head, Department of International Affairs at University of Georgia

- Led a department of 28 faculty (tenure-track and non tenure-track), approximately 35 graduate students in the Ph.D. and M.A. program, 70 graduate and 4+1 undergraduate students in the Masters in International Policy (MIP) program, and roughly 700 undergraduates in our major during COVID-19 pandemic (Total budget of 3.4 Million)
- Created two new minors (Minor in International Affairs and Minor in International Human Rights and Security), created new tracks in Masters in International Policy and M.A. programs to encourage enrollment and career placement, led a shifting of our Ph.D. comprehensive exam process to better help graduate publishing, led the creation of two new courses on the "hidden curriculum" of academia for Ph.D. students
- Spearheaded credit hour production growth during tenure, including >100% growth in Masters in International Policy

- Led effort to streamline the BA in International Affairs to alleviate bottlenecks and encourage student enrollment
- Helped to create an innovative parental leave policy that allowed multiple faculty members take parental leave for at least a full semester; policy now serves as an example across the University
- Started a department brown-bag and department guest speaker series to facilitate growth and community with special attention to diversity, equity, and inclusion
- Hired 15 faculty members and worked to creatively retain many others
- Shepherded at least 13 faculty through promotion and/or tenure
- Developed department bylaws and standard department procedures which had not existed in department's history
- Fostered inter- and intra-departmental mentorship for new faculty and graduate students
- Championed the Center for International Trade and Security, including advocating for tenured and permanent staffing
- Created a department small grant program for both faculty and graduate students
- Reallocated resources to boost the number of graduate assistantships
- Served as department representative for fundraising and engagement

2018-2022 - Editor-in-Chief, International Studies Review

- Responsible for over 2100 manuscripts submitted to journal during our five-year term
- Led a team of one managing editor and six editors
- Received the highest Impact Factor in journal history of 4.34, up from 1.63 when we started taking manuscripts in late 2017
- Ended our term with journal ranked #8 in International Relations, higher than International Studies Quarterly, Journal of Conflict Resolution, and Journal of Peace Research
- Increased global and gender diversity in submissions
- Successfully navigated COPE procedures multiple times
- Became Publications Chair of all International Studies Association journals after the successful term as Editor-in-Chief

2016-2018 - Director of Graduate Studies, University of Georgia

- Created and implemented changes in program financing to provide fully funded 5-year offers to all Ph.D. applicants
- Increased attention to Ph.D. academic placement and alt-academic careers, resulting in better placements for many graduates
- Championed renewed focus on professionalization, work-life balance, and mental health among graduate students, resulting in a regularized series of professionalization seminars
- Led a reconceptualization of events and funding for graduate visitation day
- Increased attention to diversity in graduate admissions and in course offerings

2014-2016 - Director of Graduate Studies, University of Missouri

- Implemented procedure to lower time to degree completion and improve educational outcomes
- Created a professionalization series with attention on mental health, gender issues, and academic honesty
- Increased attention to diversity in graduate admissions and in graduate programming
- Helped navigate program during rocky and highly publicized time-period in University of Missouri leadership, worked to alleviate graduate student concerns and continue their work in the classroom

2016 - Program Chair. International Studies Association

- Led all management and scheduling efforts across 29 sections, four caucuses, and six regional organizations of International Studies Association for the 2016 conference
- Created 272 theme panel for conference of 7000 academic members from 121 countries
- Navigated multiple stakeholder dialogues and problem-solving across the international academic environment
